

Surrounded by the majestic beauty and rugged wildness of the Northern Rockies, songwriter Michael Shaw worked as a horseman and wilderness ranger in Western Montana for more than a decade. Shaw brings authenticity to his music, as everything he references—from living off the land to cheating death—is rooted in the truth.